RICHMOND

... a city of tradition—steeped in her history and the culture of the Old South . . . streets and alleys paved with brick and cobblestones . . . myriad modes of architecture reveal her as a city of the past, the present, and the future . . . so it is with our school—an institution linked with the past, growing at present, with an even more promising future.

PROFESSIONAL

Students with an eye on the future—preparing to heal, to administer, to teach, to lead, to market, and to create—each preparing for a future which is right for him—studying today, all having a place in the scheme of things tomorrow.

INSTITUTE

... one which is devoted to its own work—teaching, learning, exchanging ideas . . . a family of schools, each promoting its own art and science.

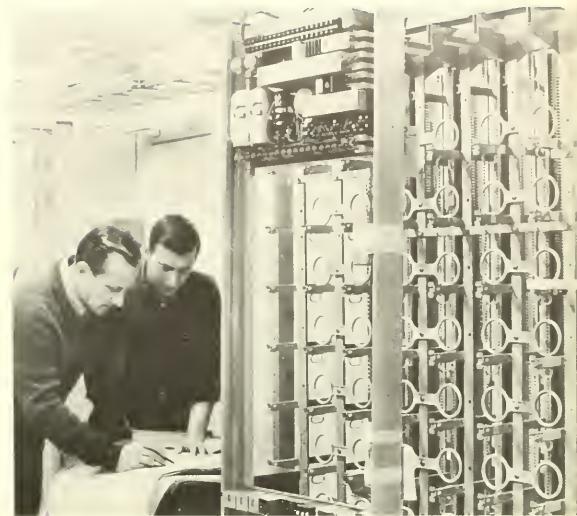

1965

... 1,000 more students than the '63-'64 session
... an expanded telephone system ... Monroe Terrace—a newly acquired high-rise dormitory ... an IBM system to keep more efficient tabs on students
... a new wing for the science building ... 916 West Franklin—a building to house student organizations and a lounge.

The May Court is chosen annually by the student body for presentation at the May Dance, Joyce Lamm, sponsored by the Circle K Club, came off with this year's honor as R.P.I.'s May Queen. Coincidentally, Joyce's birthday was May 1st, the night of the dance. Dark-haired Carole Mundy was chosen her Maid of Honor.

Rat Week: For days the juniors commit atrocities against the freshmen; but "every dog has his day" sang the revenging "rats" as their week came to an end.

Drew Pearson's lecture gave the students an insight on life in Washington.

The distinguished actor, Basil Rathbone, enhanced Shakespeare for everyone with his readings.

The Herbert Philbrick lecture

Lectures Acclaimed Best in Years

Lectures by Drew Pearson and Herbert Philbrick, author of I Led Three Lives, and Basil Rathbone's dramatic readings raised the students above the usual intellectual experiences of this year.

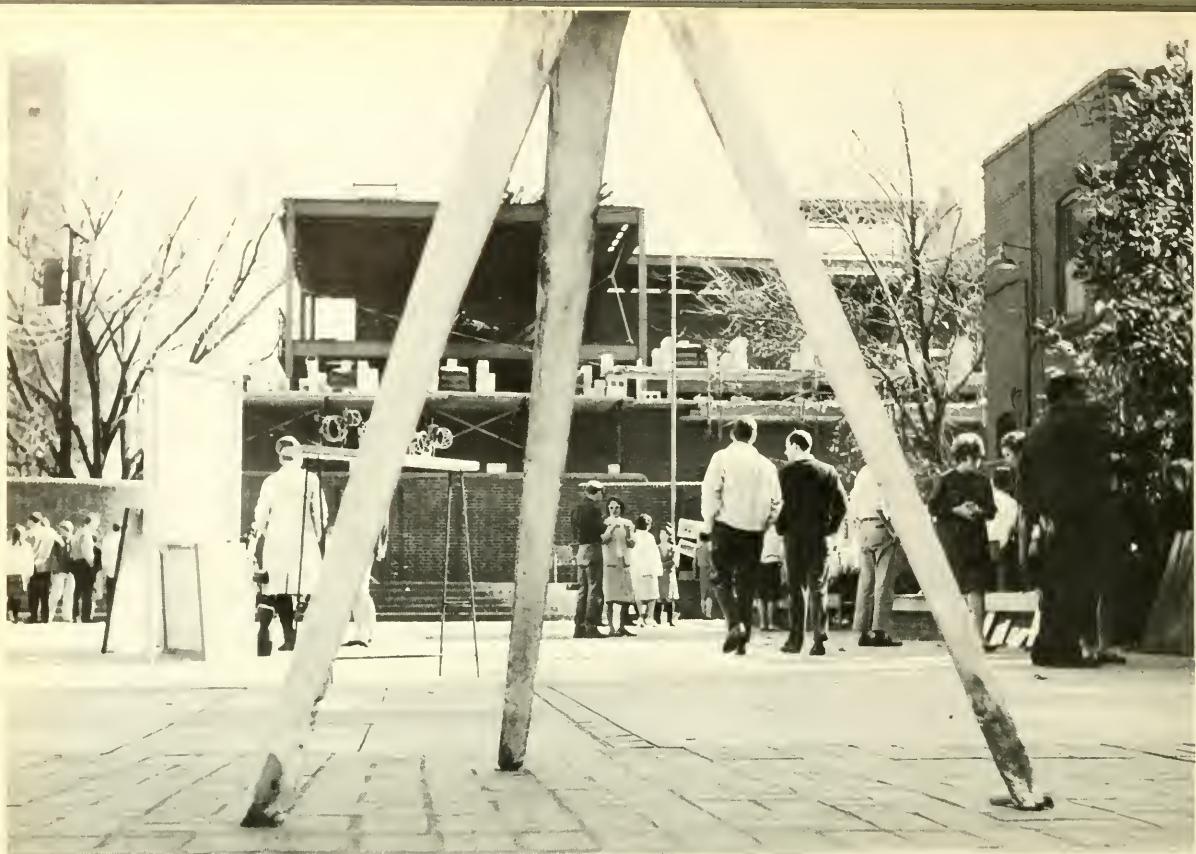

Counterspy Philbrick warned of the Communist threat in the U.S.

Dances are events that make the year a memorable one. At the Masquerade Ball, you could dance with a clown, a fern-foliaged palm tree, or a barely clad hula girl (pun intended!). In summation, it was another year of the "Liddiepool" beat or the Mersey sound.

Skirts, Sweaters

Skirts and sweaters were still the favorite for "around-the-campus" wear. Tunics and plain dresses with removable fancy jackets were highlights of the show in fashion trends.

"Suspect" and "The Lark", the Drama department's first two productions, served to allow momentary escape from school, as well as provide us with an intellectual experience.

Broadway's "glowing theater experience" —Spoon River—came to the campus with its New York actors and actresses in March.

Based upon Edgar L. Masters' classic "Spoon River Anthology", "Spoon River" presented the haunting, hilarious and heart-warming portrait of life in the American middle west at the turn of the century.

The only non-musical production to receive rave notices in the 1963-64 season, "Spoon River" was presented exactly as it was in the original Broadway production, complete with its stellar cast of actors and folk-singers.

A Ring, a Kiss . . .

Amid dripping icicles from glimmering snow-draped boughs, "Winter Dionysia" was presented by the Junior Class and the Dance Club.

The Mid-Winters' theme, inspired by Dionysia, the ancient God of wine, was carried out in the Mosque ballroom, February 27.

Lloyd Price and his band with vocalist Erma Franklin provided the music in a parthenon-like bandstand as more than 850 persons packed the dance floor to celebrate ancient Grecian rites.

A costumed toga guard served hors d'oeuvres of skewered vienna sausages, cubes of cheddar cheese and green olives as couples gathered at the annual dance fete. Cranberry punch, apples and grapes were other edible decorative high points.

Over 100 couples exchanged rings and sealed the ceremony with a kiss in the second annual Ring Figure—a promenade of juniors who officially received their school rings.

The Cotillion Club sponsored a decoration contest among all dormitories. At the dance, Cotillion Club president Sharon Gates presented coeds living at the Senior Center with the first place trophy for their papier mache figures of Bacchus, the Roman God of wine and Bacchus' grape gatherer. The decorations were suspended from the front of the senior center's second floor.

Founder's Hall received a second place award plaque for its Greek urn decoration which formed the doorway of the dormitory.

On the dance floor, students, faculty and administration watched in awe the activity of RPI's most successful dance. Mid-Winters was a $3,200 extravaganza that was talked about for days afterwards.

The SGA had a week of high jinks in which it tried to point out several problems plaguing the school, including, shortage of classrooms, lack of community understanding and school spirit.

Those attending "Winter Dionysia" said they had never seen anything like it here and welcomed Mid-Winters as a deserved part of college's long winter's night.

Co-captains for the Rams are C. G. Winston and Bubba Crane.

13-9

The Rams ended the campaign with their finest record, 13-9, since the 1956-57 season. Bob Griffin won the Slater Sportsman-ship Award and C. G. Winston copped the Best Defensive Award. Bubba Crone was presented the award for Most Improved Player and Lyn Creech was selected as the Most Valuable Player.

Grapplers Have Successful Season

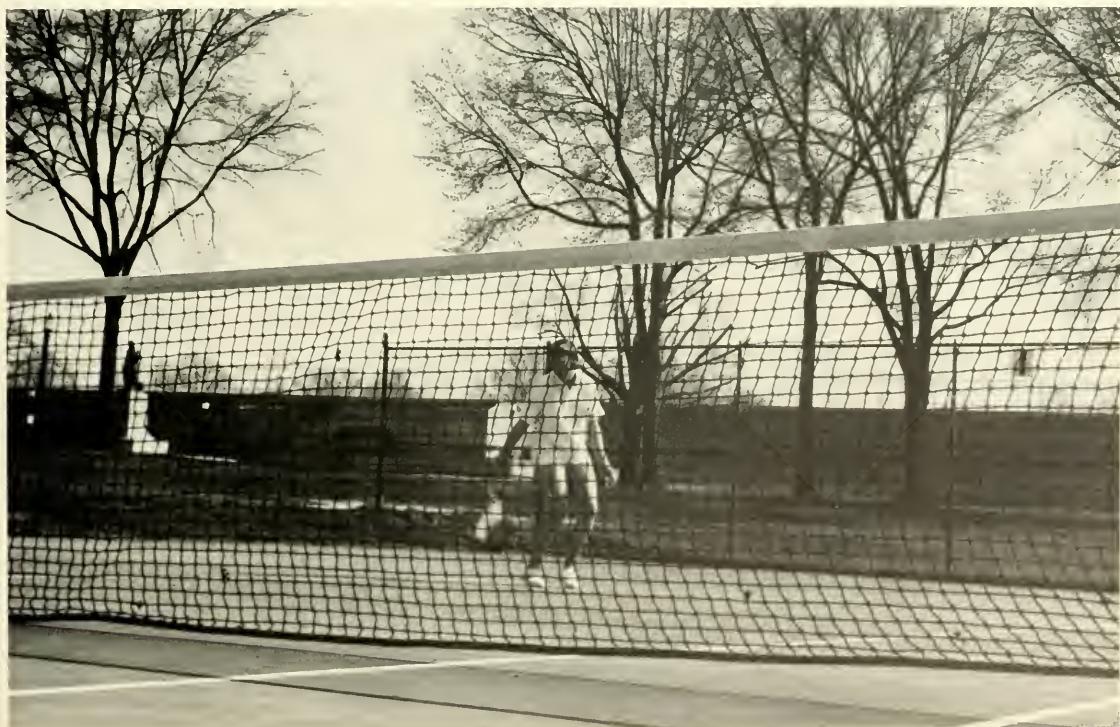

The headline on the facing page is not exactly factual, but does express our wishes for the Ram wrestlers. Although the wrestling team wound up with an 0-11 record, we don't like to feel the season was a total loss. And besides, we thought the headline might help boost the team's morale some. Maybe even enough to have a winning season next year.

With experience behind them, returning players Bill Gordon, Bill Schwartz, Garland Lloyd, and Milt Woody will be assets to this year's squad.

S.G.A. Has Busy Year

The Student Government Association has been busy every moment of the school year. The "wheels of progress" began turning early in the fall . . . seeing that Orientation Week ran smoothly and each new student was made to feel a part of RPI . . . selecting the Freshman Advisory Board . . . the Honor Court . . . organizing the Dance Club . . . setting and clearing dates for RPI activities. As the year moved on, the S.G.A. was still kept on its toes . . . arranging for the S.G.A. Scholarship Drive . . . approving and disapproving constitutions of clubs, classes and dorms . . . making up and grading tests for the S.G.A. Under the leadership of Chairman Ed Coffman, the Honor Court this year performed well its duties as keeper of the Honor Code.

But 1965 was an exciting year for honor codes. With the disclosure of the Air Force Academy cheating scandal, national attention was focused on students' moral standards, and the Honor Court launched a re-evaluation study of R.P.I.'s own Honor Code.

COBBLESTONE

Arrives on Time!

The COBBLESTONE staff faced and met a strong challenge this year - we got the yearbook out on time! For the first time in years, students were able to receive their yearbooks in the spring, and seniors could take their yearbooks with them when they graduated. The COBBLESTONE moved into new quarters this year, complete with office, layout room, and our own photo lab. Although the darkroom was finally set up only ten days before the final deadline, it helped in the last minute rush, and will be an invaluable asset in future years.

The IMAGE is the RPI outlet for initiative in the fields of literature and pictorial arts. All students have the opportunity to contribute work for this magazine. Through the efforts of R. Meyer, Managing Editor; N. Parker, Poetry Editor; R. Dale, Art Editor; R. Shoffner, Literary Editor, and the other members of the staff, RPI has been able to enjoy another excellent year of creativity.

Mr. Miles W. Woods, the advisor to the IMAGE, gives the staff advice.

This year's PROSCRIPT activities included the popular Presidential Mock Election, which saw a record turnout elect Goldwater by a substantial margin. The PROSCRIPT, the weekly campus newspaper, is a service of the Journalism Department. It kept RPI well-informed of all school activities before, during, and after they happened. National events were also highlighted during the exciting election year.

Ritter-Hickock Is Clash Between Old and New

This beautiful old mansion is located on the RPI campus between the modern Gymnasium and Founders Hall. It serves as a constant reminder of our combination of old and new emerging into a progressive school. This dorm offers its members many exciting moments including the annual Christmas tree trim party. "Girls in, Boys out," is the evening call of the house mother.

The ghost of Colonel A. A. Anderson, for whom the dormitory is named, haunts and prowls, but does not upset this home away from home for 26 girls. This lively group of girls is happily adjusted to the intimate setting in which they exist. Mrs. Rudolph is the well-loved house-mother of 913 Dormitory. This dorm offers many activities including a masquerade Halloween party, a gala Christmas celebration, "heart sisters" at Valentines, a spring windup, and a year round frenzied hunt for greenbacks for our TV.

What's big, and has lots of growing pains, is two-faced with a north and a south side, can see all over, adds a new face each day, and has ups and downs, with the constant cry, "Four—net four and a half!"— It's Monroe Terrace North, R.P.I.'s answer to the population explosion. A strong bond of unity among the many inhabitants is typified by the many and various parties at Scherer Hall. Organized or un, these soirees range from a full-scale costume frolic in the back yard to an after-hours bull session on the fifth floor. There is no evidence to support the rumor that this is just a massive group-therapy project.

Coeds in 828 Park Avenue said their good-byes to the dormitory that was dubbed Chalkley House this year. The dormitory is being converted to a men's residence for use in the 1965-66 session.

Amid the wreckage and construction on Park Avenue, the dorm still stood as a reminder of the college's past and a symbol of its growing future.

The professional spirit is reflected on a smaller scale at 828 without the departmental barrier. For the school's every major there is a minor at 828—the three floors of individuals that make up the whole.

Girls at 828 recall with great memories the smoldering fire drills throughout the year that almost played fairy godmother by transforming Chalkley House into Charcoal House.

Dormitory Hostess Mrs. Santie Butler played momma-away-from-home to the more than 60 coeds living there as she coped with the usual tears, frustrations, disappointment and joys that are those of the college coed.

828 will be remembered by the girls who lived there as they recall their first date, their first week-end campus for not signing out and their first yell of "man on the hall."

Skateboards, prowlers, blown fuses, leaking walls, watermelons, and that inevitable cramming all seem to dominate the dormitory life at 909 West Franklin. To the 22 co-eds that compose the dorm, however, these occurrences are quite normal and are taken into the every day stride. Also taken in step are several additions toward the making of a full fledged dormitory. These include a house mother, Mrs. Curtis, who works in close cooperation with the girls; a house-council; the use of the downstairs parlors, and a firebell.

German Club's Shake-a-Tail- Feather Fills Gym

The German Club's Shake-a-Tail-Feather series provided RPI with four of the best dances of the year. The dances were popular, successful, and helped boost the school spirit. Shake-a-Tail-Feather was also credited with aiding in the return of first-rate entertainment to the cobblestone campus.

Another project was the selection of the German Club Sweetheart. This is an annual event which brings prime examples of campus beauty to the fore, as is evidenced by this year's winner, Lane Banister.

Film Society Offers Best of Celluloid

The R.P.I. Film Society provides the student body of Shafer Street with the best of the cinema art. Selections are both domestic and foreign; experimental films are shown as well as the classics of the industry. In addition to its regular showings, the society presents a special showcase of films during the Annual Spring Arts Festival.

Young Republicans Back Barry

YOUNG REPUBLICAN OFFICERS: G. Murphy, Advisor; B. Ingram, SGA Representative; C. Sigman, President; B. Beville, Secretary; J. Lamb, Vice-President.

The Young Republican Club at R.P.I. and its associate clubs throughout the state have as their aim to teach the principles of the conservative political philosophy. In addition, the Y. R. C. at R.P.I. also participates in local campaigns to elect Republicans to local, state, and national offices. This group had as its fall project, the backing of Barry Goldwater for the office of President of these United States. The club, now in its third year, already has a membership of over 75 students.

Young Dems Spark Political Atmosphere on Campus

The Young Democrat Club was organized to further the ideals and principles of democracy and to give interest in political matters to the students who join and participate in the affairs of the club. The main ideal of the YDC is to initiate interest in politics and other various aspects of politics. The club strives for a continuous following of able and active democrats and welcomes all regularly enrolled students of R.P.I. and other persons having connection with the institution to consider membership.

Cotillion Club Reactivated

The Cotillion Club, new at R. P. I. this year, was organized to give interested girls an opportunity to participate in the school's social activities. The club sponsored many activities during the year. The first of these, a hootenanny, was enjoyed by R. P. I.'s folk music enthusiasts. At Christmas the club provided an underprivileged Richmond family with food, clothing, toys, and a party for the family's five children. During mid-winters week-end, they instituted the Cotillion Club Award for the best dorm decorations in keeping with the "Winter Dionysis" theme. In March the club, along with the German Club, sponsored "Shake-a-Tail-Feather—Part III". The Cotillion Club, organized and led by Sharon Gates, its president, is well on its way to proving one of R. P. I.'s most active clubs.

COTILLION CLUB OFFICERS — S. Gates, President; B. Schwab, Vice-President; C. Cleveland, Treasurer; C. Hart, Secretary; Missing: L. Hooper, SGA Representative.

CSO Sponsors Alton Lecture

One of the highlights of the Christian Science Organization program this year was the sponsorship of a free lecture entitled "Man Unlimited" given here by William Henry Alton of the Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston. Weekly meetings help to convey the Christian Science doctrine more clearly.

BSU Finds Center Helpful

The Baptist Student Center at 915 Park Avenue is the center of activity for the Baptist Student Union, offering a place for fellowship and recreation near the RPI campus. Through its various discussions, outings, and parties, the BSU endeavors to promote the spiritual growth and Christian development of its student members.

Wesley Group Active This Year

The Wesley Foundation at RPI offers the students more than just regular church meetings. Informative programs, and outings such as the one pictured here offer the fellowship and development that are a part of the students' religious life.

Newman Program Educational, Informati

The religious needs of Catholic students are met by the RPI Newman Club. Informal meetings in the Rotunda serve as the hub of the group's activities, which include various projects and programs concerned with the students' religious education.

Rabbi Krinsky and Hillel Foundation Members.

Hillel Group Works with Other Schools

The Hillel Foundation is primarily concerned with the relationship of the Jewish student to the college.

Through its monthly luncheon meetings, the religious club discusses topics of interest to all members and provides a social outlet as well.

Joint meetings with other local colleges is another activity. Together with the Medical College of Virginia, Hillel had dinner meetings every two months for the benefit of all foundation members.

In April, the club observed an annual Pass-over service with MCV, University of Richmond and Westhampton.

Rabbi Krinsky of Charlottesville is advisor to the group.

Circle K—  Most Active Club

The RPI chapter of Circle K International was officially chartered October 6, 1964. Since then they have been the busiest and most active club on campus. They first showed their drive by cleaning up Shafer Street in October. In November, club members took ten underprivileged boys to a Richmond Rebels football game. At Christmas, Circle K helped man a Salvation Army booth downtown. But the coming of the basketball season showed Circle K's true colors—blue and gray. Their all-out basketball promotion helped turn student apathy into enthusiasm. Signs covered the campus and Circle K members sold programs and Cokes at the games. As a result, attendance reached an all-time high and school spirit returned to RPI.

Varsity Club Boosts Athletic Spirit

The Varsity Club is an impressive collection of the finest of RPI's athletic talent. Avid supporters, as well as participants, the members follow all of our school sports and attempt to boost the school's athletic spirit. The cheerleaders, also members, add a touch of beauty to the group.

SEA Reactivates Chapter

There was just too much enthusiasm among RPI's education majors to wait another year before reactivating the George J. Oliver Chapter of the Student Education Association! With the support of an interested faculty chapter of the VEA, the members of the SEA have added opportunities to grow professionally and to encourage the high school Future Teachers Association in the area.

SEA OFFICERS: N. Forsyth, Parliamentarian; R. Gardner, President, D. Arbagost, Business Manager; R. Allman, Recording Secretary; D. Smith, SGA Representative; E. Hughes, Treasurer.

Over 750 Alumni Attend Homecoming

W. O. Edwards, Dir. of Development, discusses expansion plans with visiting alumnus.

The Honorable Mayor Morill M. Crowe speaks before Alumni.

This year's Homecoming was the most successful that RPI has ever had. Among the highlights of the weekend was the Basil Rathbone performance. At the Homecoming luncheon, Mayor Crowe praised RPI's many contributions to the city. The weekend was topped off by a dinner-dance at the Hotel John Marshall.

The Alumni Association's new officers are Mr. G. W. Norris, Pres.; Mr. S. Guza III, Vice-Pres.; Miss M. Sykes, Treas.; Mrs. D. W. Brewington, Sec.

CLASSES

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS—N. Pifer, President; R. Harris, Vice-president; M. Rasar, Secretary; B. Nester, SGA Representative; L. Carlsan, Treasurer.

Seniors Watch College Grow

The Senior Class first knew R.P.I. as the Green Devils. They have seen the school and campus grow after our separation from the College of William and Mary. Now, as they separate from R.P.I. they must see themselves grow for their own fulfillment.

The Senior Class sponsors the Miss R.P.I. Beauty Contest in the spring to select a Queen to represent our college.

Now, as these Professionals are graduated, their formal education will never be forgotten.

Junior Class Sponsors Two Big Weekends

The class which claims the most school spirit has entertained R.P.I. for two big weekends. The Junior Class sponsors Rat Week in the fall to build up spirit, and interest the freshmen in school activity. Rat week is brought to a climax with the Rat Dance, where a Mr. and Miss Rat are chosen for their participation.

"Winter Dionysia", which was the theme at Ring Dance at Mid-Winters, was eagerly publicized by the Juniors. Lloyd Price and his orchestra played for the most successful dance.

It's a wonder what same tape and a little glue will do.

Gold trays for Mid-Winters are being "plated".

Sophomores Sponsor Harvest Ball

The Class officers sometimes take time out from work to catch up on "fun".

Dayna Parker, President of the Sophomore Class calls the meeting to order in her own fashion.

These are the beauties that reigned over the Harvest Ball.

FRESHMAN ADVISORY BOARD—P. Duffey, SGA Representative; C. Vior, Secretary; B. Hill, Treasurer; B. Burton, Chairman.

Spunky Freshmen Survive Rat Week

Orientation and Rat Week initiated this year's Freshmen to the helter skelter life at R.P.I. One of the most spirited and rambunctious classes ever to enter R.P.I., the class of '68 immediately entered into every facet of campus life.

The Freshman class sponsors May Dance during Parents' Weekend, where the May Queen and her attendants are honored.

To the Freshman Class, the future stays in the future—the present is soon the past.

Freshmen: Always a long line.

Freshmen's first words . . . "Where?"

I think I must feel somewhat akin to a father whose first-born has just gone out on his own. As the final pages go to press, I suddenly realize that this is the end. No one can know the joy, relief, and happiness I feel over the completion of this book, but there also lurks a shadow of sadness, for there is no more to do, and so many working relationships that must end here.

But this journal is not a solo accomplishment. There are many people who are responsible for the finished product and I would like to take this opportunity to thank just a few of them.

No tribute can be adequate to express our thanks to Terry Gilson, our representative from Inter-Collegiate Press, Inc. Far and above the call of duty, he has worked long hours with us, nursing the book along, and giving us the will and inspiration to continue. I apologize for the gray hairs, Terry.

My special thanks to two of my hardest workers, Vicky Victor and Lillian Rushing, who stuck with it until the end, working many long days and nights to meet the final deadline.

To our over-worked photographers, Walt Evans, Bruce Sandkam, and Ray Verbit goes a special salute, especially to Walt, who bore most of the first semester load by himself. Also, thanks to Dave Harvey and Perk Gormus of the PROSCRIPT who often came through in the clutch.

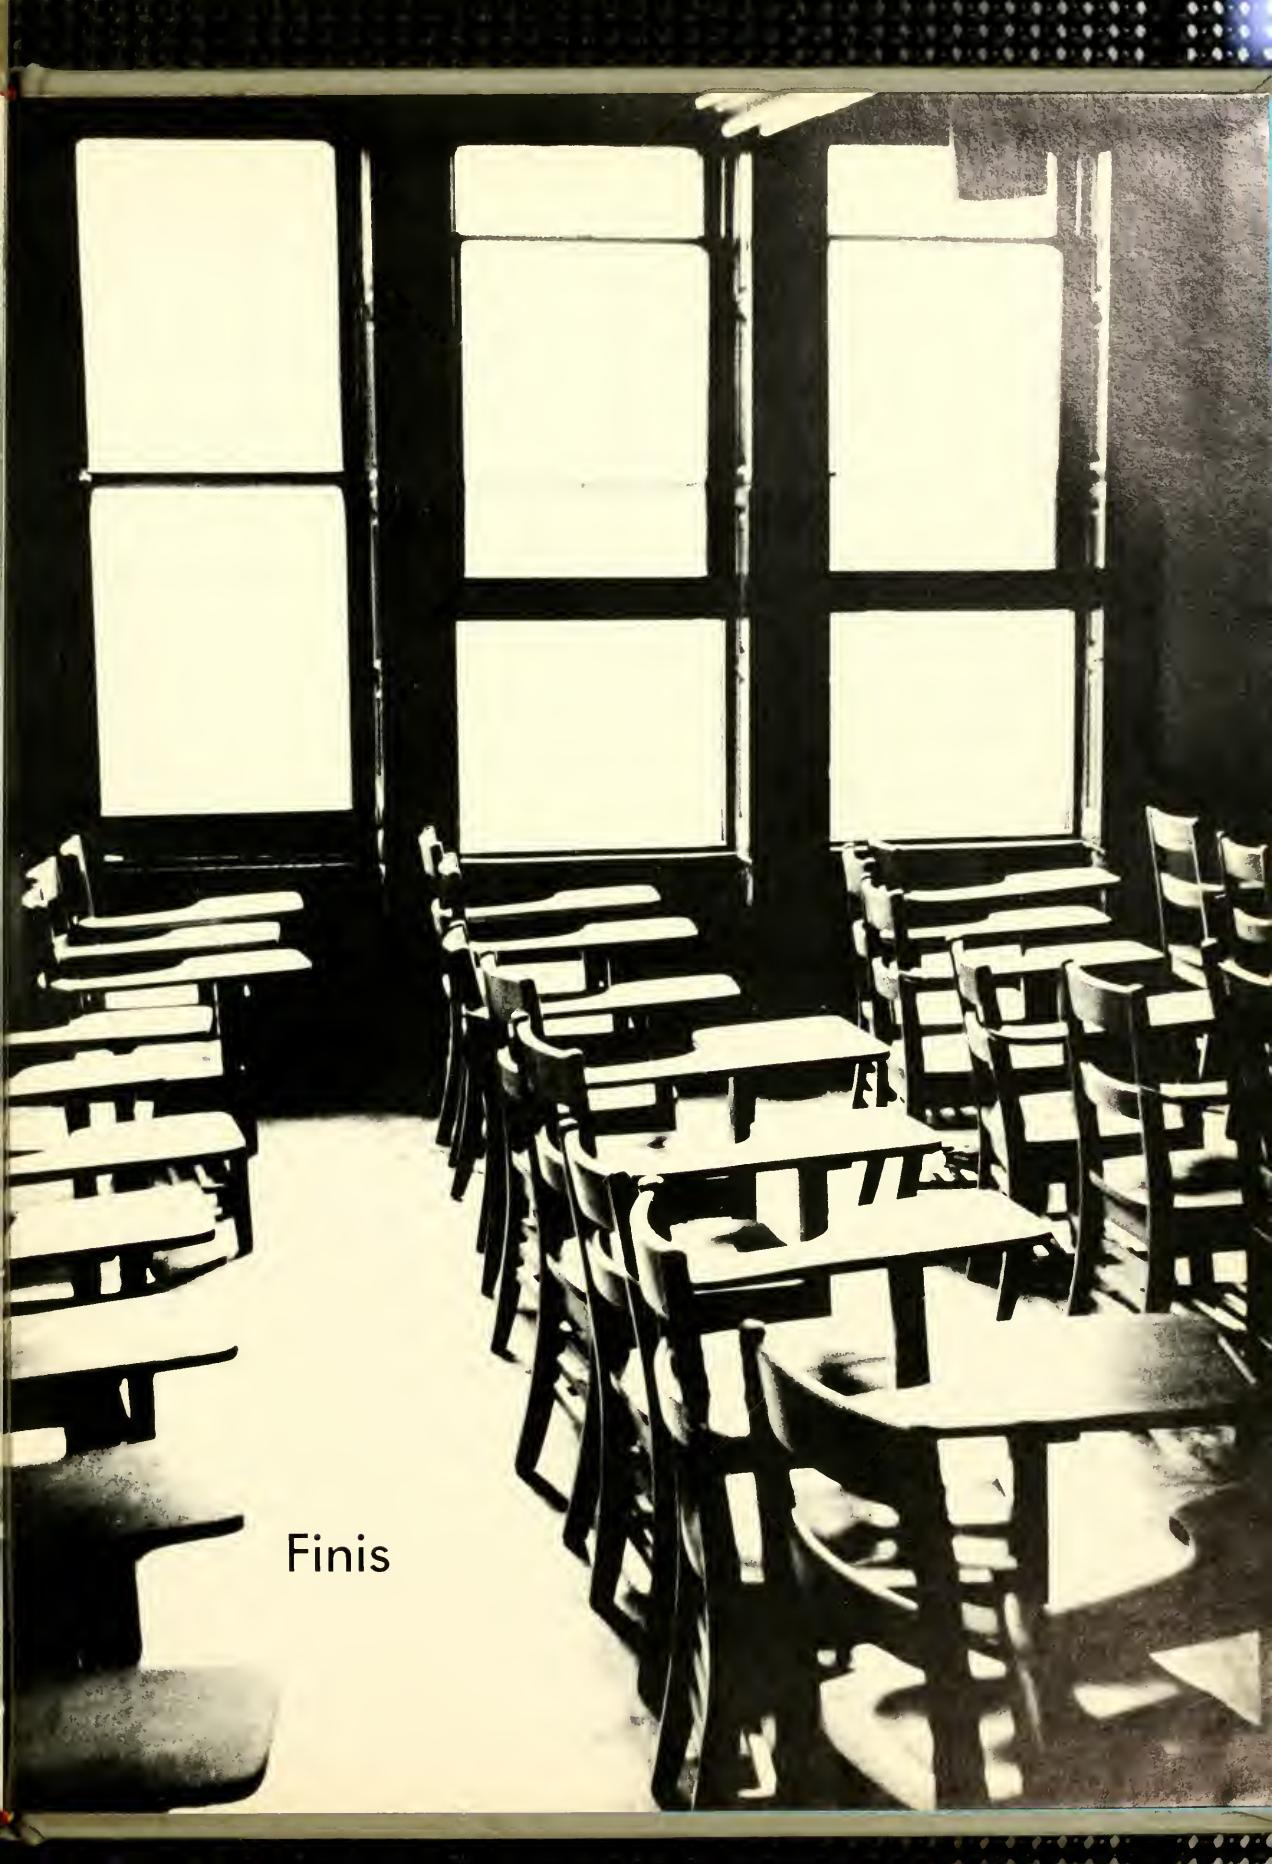

Thanks to Barbara Pollock, our Business Manager, who has waged a valiant battle on two fronts: trying to keep the books straight despite our reckless spending, and trying to keep the office clean amidst our working mess.

To our typists Zeta Smith and Myra Stein, for whom we never seemed to have enough work, our thanks for a job quickly and efficiently done.

And finally, a special thanks to Mr. Richard MacDougall, our advisor, who has allowed us the independence necessary for free expression and creativity, without neglecting his responsibilities as an advisor.

I am sure I will be the biggest fan and the biggest critic of this 1965 COBBLESTONE. It is by no means perfection, but I do think it is the best yearbook to come out of R.P.I. yet. Its flaws can be a challenge to next year's staff. Its merits, I hope, will be remembered by the readers. As for me . . .

*I quit!
Diane*
